Mrs. Joyce is missed every day. As I sit down to sell books or call bingo her normal spot is empty but I can still picture her there calling out BINGO with that wonderful smile on her face. We would sit and she would tell me about her late husband and how he was involved with bingo years ago. I will miss her story's. She never complained when she didn't win and when she did win, especially the big money, she never braged and was so excited by it. I loved it when she won on our sessions because she made me feel like I had just given her the best gift ever.
